PLAINTIFFS REPLY BRIEF

19 Let us examine the authorities cited by defendants, 20 under his first leading

21 " The Court lacks jurisdiction over the 22 subject -- "

23 he says--

24 " Education is purely a State matter within 25 the control of the States "

26 and cites--

27 "Cummings -vs- Richmond Board of Education
28 175 U. S. 528. The action involved the right
29 of Negro children to attend high school. "

30 The case was determined in 1899. This alone is not impor-
31 tant except that in comparison with the latest language from our 32 Courts as announced in Kerr -vs- Enoch, Pratt etc.(1945) -- the

1 changing views on constitutional impairments indicating the living,
2 breathing and enlarging qualities of our constitutional guaranties--
3 yet in the Cummings -vs- Richmond case the Court said--

4 " The management of such schools cannot be justified
5 except in the case of a clear and unmistakable 6 disregard of right secured by the Supreme law of 7 the land ."

8 We submit that plaintiff herein by amply and by overwhelming 9 proof demonstrated a disregard by state school authorities " of 10 rights secured by the Supreme law of the land".

11 The next authority cited is Gong Lum -vs- Rice 275 U. S. 78
12 where a chinese citizen of the United States was classed among the 13 colored races and required to attend school with Negro children.
14 Under the laws of Mississippi it was provided that "separate schools 15 shall be maintained for children of white and colored races."

16 " The Court held that this provision of the 17 Constitution divided the educable children
18 into those of the pure white or Caucasian
19 race, on the one hand, and the brown, yellow 20 and black races, on the other, and therefore that 21 Martha Lum of the Mongolian or yellow race could 22 not insist on being classed with the whites under 23 this constitutional division."

24 The defendants have insisted throughout their brief -"that 25 race is not involved in this case " (page 2 lines 22-23) and again 26 "that this case does not involve a racial segregation " (page 15 27 line 24).

28 They rely upon the settled policy and reasoning of the esta-29 blished authorities and in segregating children purely and solely 30 upon a racial basis as their authority for segregating children of 31 Mexican descent yet admit that such reason alone are in violation 32 of Section 8003 of the State Education Code and that recourse

1 should be had to the State Courts for a remedy. Reading the follo-
2 wing from Page 7 of the brief, wherein it is admitted.

3 "If such are the facts, any Superior Court
4 of the State of California would upon appli-
5 cation grant a Writ of Mandate "--

6 This argument is mere sophistry. We are lost in a maze of 7 legal verbeage, wherein the horse chesnut becomes the chesnut horse.
8 The reasons for the segregation have been distorted to justify and 9 sanction the results.

10 The Respondents shout under the guise of our State "Educatio-11 nal" Code, their can be no constitutional violations. As suggested 12 by them.

13 " Section 8003 of the Education Code cited
14 by Amici Curiae permits a racial segrega -
15 tion and in our opinion any segregation
16 upon a racial basis other than as permitted 17 by said Section would be contrary to the 18 laws of the State of California. However 19 this case does not involve a racial segre-
20 gation." Page 15 lines 20-24- Resp. Brief.)

21 This Court has already stated that segregation was esta-22 blished by the evidence. This is segregation against a class. The 23 test is- if a law rule or regulation is "applied and administered 24 by public authority with an evil eye and an unequal hand so as prac-25 tically to make unjust and illegal discriminations between persons in 26 similar circumstances." (Yick Wo -vs- Hopkins 118 U. S. 356,373-374) 27 it is the same as if the invidious discriminations were incorporated 28 in the law itself.

29 If the action of the School Board in effect were the same as 30 the California Education Code, that children of Mexican descent 31 attend schools apart from the other children it would run afoul of the 32 equal protection clause whether such discrimination were based on

1 these children being Catholic, Presbyterian, Free Mason, Jew or some 2 other belief, religion or characteristic the school officials did 3 not like.

4 The "evil eye and unequal hand" test easily may be gleaned
5 from again reading the testimony of Mr. Kent, Mr. Hammerstan, Mr.
6 Harris etc, where everything derogatory, unsavory and detrimental 7 is attached to and associated with the child of Mexican descent, 8 that he is unclean, dirty, afflicted with loath some diseases,
9 ignorant, illiterate, poor and lacking in Americanization. Inferior 10 to whites in matters of personal hygiene in their ability, in 11 their economic and social outlook, their clothing and ability to 12 take part in school activities. (See Resp. Trans. pages 85, 86, 87, 13 88, 89, 119, 120, 121, 122, 65, 67, 116,).

14 Not one child of Anglo Saxon descent is set apart because 15 of any such reasons as applied to children of Mexican descent. Then 16 what other reason or excuse can be given for such discriminatory 17 tactics than that, it is the vicious operation and practice of the 18 "evil eye and unequal hand " test and based upon the fact that 19 these innocent children were born to parents of Mexican lineage, a 20 class whom this puesday school authorities do not like and did not 21 desire their children or children of anglo saxon descent to asso-
22 ciate with. This is the crux of the issue. Why evadem dodge or dis-
23 tort the issue? The veneer is to thin the arguement is sham and fri-24 vilous.

25 The truth of this accusations are found in the written 26 words of Mr. Kent, wherein he advocates openly nay challenges the 27 complete and absolute segregation of Mexicans from whites with im-28 punity in his Thesis (in evidence) as though race superiority was 29 an established practice in the United States.

30 He even had the audacity of continually urging that Mexi-
31 cans were not of the white race but of another race and of compa-
32 ring "Mexican" children with "white" children, upon this Superin-

1 tendent of Schools rests the honor and privilege of inculcating in 2 minds and lives of school children the spirit of democracy, free-3 dom and justice,-- what a mockery ! .

4 Respondents have made much argument of Snowden -vs-5 Hughes 321 U. S. 1- An examination of the text of the opinion will 6 not only show the distinction between the case at bar but will give 7 weight and evidence to our argument and reasoning.-

8 The Court held "-- an unlawful denial by State action of 9 a right to state political office is not a denial of property or of 10 liberty secured by the due process clause.

11 " There is no contention that the statutes
12 of the State are in any respect inconsistent
13 with the guarantees of the Fourteenth Amend-
14 ment. There is no allegation of any facts
15 tending to show that in refusing to certify
16 petitioner as a nominee, the Board was ma-
17 king any intentional or purposeful discrimi-18 nation between persons or classes. On the 19 argument before us petitioner disclaimed
20 any contention that class or racial discrimi-21 nation is involved. The insistence is 22 rather that the Board, merely by failing to 23 certify petitioner as a duly elected nominee, 24 has denied to him a right conferred by state 25 law and has thereby denied to him the equal
26 protection of the laws secured by the Four-27 teenth Amendment."

28 What more can be said than the opinion itself suggests 29 that if there had been a showing of "class or racial discrimination" 30 the petition would have been permitted to stand and the cause tried 31 rather than affirming "the judgment for failure to state a cause of 32 action within the jurisdiction of the District Court."

1 And again defendants cite People -vs- Gallagher, 93 N. Y.
2 438- 45 American Reports 232. This case decided in 1883, also deals
3 with the right of colored children to attend schools established 4 solely for white children. The head note recites.

5 " Separate public schools being provided for 6 colored children such children may be exclu-
7 ded from those provided for white children."

8 Plaintiffs being all American Citizens, theirs is not 9 even that meagre hair line distinction as basis for segregation, for 10 different races and nationalities as suggested in the foregoing 11 opinion. Yet this opinion was decided by the Supreme Court of N. Y.
12 in 1883 and the dictum is sought to be used as authority in the 13 instant case.

14 The next case cited is that of Cory -vs- Carter 48 Ind.
15 327 decided November 1874. The head note likewise states.

16 "The legislature passed a statute
17 establishing separate schools for colored 18 children having all the rights of other
19 schools, held not in violation of state
20 nor of the United States."

21 Defendants do magnanimously admit that in so far as Mrs.
22 Ochoa and her children and Mrs. Sianez and her children are concer-
23 ned in the Lincoln and Bolso Schools within the Garden Grove 24 District, Mr. Kent the Superintendent - was acting contrary to and 25 in violation of Trustees. He gave no consideration to the ability 26 of the children to speak the English language nor due or any consi-27 deration to the proximity of the pupils residence to the nearest 28 school." If such are the facts, any Superior Court of the State of 29 California would upon application grant a Writ of Mandate -- ."
30 (Page 7- Resp. Brief.)

31 Defendants forget this is a representative suit on behalf 32 of all children similarly situated and affected. He forgets there

1 are hundreds of children who cry for the same benefits - freedom 2 from unlawful discrimination. He recites the rule of admission of 3 the Board of Trustees of September, 13, 1944, providing specially 4 for Mexican children " a policy be adopted whereby there be no se-5 gregation of pupils on a racial basis, but that non English speaking 6 pupils, so far as practical, should attend school where they can 7 be given special instruction --" (Page 7 Resp. Brief.) Yet he forgets 8 that every Superintendent and Principal testifying for defendants 9 vehemently urged and consistently charged that every child of Mexi-
10 can descent required special instruction in English, Americanization 11 cleanliness or some other farciful or self serving idea. He urges 12 the lack of Federal Jurisdiction because the Board in the passing 13 of the "rule of admission" was acting through altruistic inspira-14 tion. Yet the very wording of the rule discloses the existance of 15 the evil sought to be remedied - it begins - " Some problems were 16 presented regarding the attendance of Mexican pupils in the school."

17 Counsel says in citing Snowden -vs- Hughes, supra that 18 "otherwise every illegal discrimination of a policemen on the beat 19 would be state action for purpose of suit in a Federal Court.-" 20 The Court itself speaking your justice Frankfurter, stated that 21 " there is no allegation of any facts tending to show that in refu-22 sing to certify petitioner as a nominee the Board was making any 23 intentional or purposeful discrimination between persons or classes." 24 On the argument before us petitioner disclaimed any contention that 25 class or racial discrimination is involved."

26 That is the very issue involved in the instant cause. The 27 complaint so alleges and the proof amply and conclusively so esta-28 blishes.

29 Therefore it is a Federal question pure and simple and this 30 supported directly and unquestionably by the main authority cited by 31 defendants.

32 Under heading "C" defendants say " school Districts are

1 mere administrative agencies of the State, actions of such District
2 cannot be considered State Action, within the meaning of the 14th.
3 Amendment." (Page 10 of Resp. Brief.)

4 This disertation is an abviously erroneous statement of 5 Law. In Kerr -vs- Enoch Pratt etc, 149 Fed. 2nd. 212 the Court 6 said:

7 " In any event, it is our duty in this case
8 in passing upon the nature of the library
9 corporation and its relationship to the state 10 not to be guided by the technical rules of the 11 law of principal and agent, but to apply the 12 test laid down in Nixon v. Condon, 286 U. S.
13 73, 52 S. Ct. 484, 76 L. Ed. 984, 88 A.L.R.
14 458, to which we have already referred. There
15 the Supreme Court held that an executive commi-16 ttee of a political party, which had been 17 authorized by a Texas statute to determine the 18 qualification of the members of the party, was 19 not acting merely for the political organiza-
20 tion for which it spoke but as acting as a re-
21 presentative of the state when it excluded
22 Negroes from participation in a primary election.
23 In declaring that this action was subject to 24 the condemnation of the Fourteenth Amendment 25 the Court said (286 U. S. at pages 88, 89, 52 S.
26 Ct. at page 427, 76 L. Ed. 984, 88 A. L. R. 458): 27  The vital of the matter is simply this, 28 that, when these agencies are authorized with an 29 authority independent of the will of the asso-
30 ciation in question, to prevent political action, 31 they become to that extent the organs of the 32 state itself, the repositories of official

1 power. They are then the governmental ins-
2 truments whereby parties are organized and 3 regulated to the end that government itself
4 may be not hindered or controlled. And they do
5 in fact relate, they must be in submission 6 to the nature of a quality of liberty to be 7 binding of the law of the land. They are not de-8 termined in matters of purely private concern like 9 the directors or agents of business corpora-
10 tions. They are acting in matters of high pub-
11 lic interest, matters intimately connected
12 with the capacity of government to exercise
13 its functions in a proper and orderly manner.

14 Detail in given circumstances parties of 15 their committees or agencies of government
16 within the Fourteenth or the Fifteenth 17 Amendment is a question which this Court will 18 determine for itself. It is not concluded
19 upon such an inquiry by decisions rendered
20 elsewhere. The fact is not certain that members 21 of the executive committees are the representa-22 tives of the state in the strict sense in which 23 the word is used in the Fourteenth Amendment.
24 The fact is not certain that they are to be considered 25 representatives of the state to such an extent 26 as to be bound by the restrictions of 27 the Constitution as to their action.
28 For further illustration of this principle see 29 Smith vs. Duwright, 321 U. S. 629, 631 U. S.
30 757, 88 L. Ed. 927. "

31 Defendants urge that, "if the rules of the governing district
32 are in conflict with any provision of the United States Constitu-

1 tion they are expressly in violation of Section 2204 of the Consti-
2 tute Code." This obviously is copying the law. Defendants claim
3 no violation of the State Code for their reasons given in segrega-
4 ting Mexican pupils. This vicious circle of argument still leaves 5 one who returns to the law to perceive that there is "segregation in 6 the "rule" of the Courts for admission not withstanding its finess 7 in nursing still leaves the practice and set far from the thought.
8 As aptly stated in Lane -vs- Wilson 307 U. S. 268.

9 "We therefore cannot avoid passing on the 10 merits of plaintiff's constitutional claims.
11 The reach of the Fifteenth Amendment against 12 contrivances by a state to thwart equality 13 in the enjoyment of the right to vote by 14 citizens of the United States regardless of 15 race or color, has been amply expounded
16 by prior decisions. Guinn v. United States
17 238. The Amendment nullifies sophisticated
18 as well as simple-minded modes of discrimi-
19 nation. It sets onerous procedural require-
20 ments which effectively handicap exercise 21 of the franchise by the colored race although 22 the abstract right to vote may remain
23 unrestricted as to race. "

24 The latest expression from the Supreme Court of the United 25 States, which discusses the application of the Fourteenth Amend-26 ment to the actions of individuals as constituting state action 27 is the case of Screws -vs- United States, 89 L. Ed. 1029, wherein 28 the Supreme Court stated and held that the words "under color of 29 any law" were interpreted to include acts of officers of the State, 30 a Sheriff, a policeman, and a special deputy in flogging a negro 31 prisoner to death while taking him to jail. In that case the defen-32 se was raised that the defendants had violated the State Law, and

1 therefore their actions were not acts of the State.

2 Justice Rutledge at page 1043 answered this contention as 3 follows: "... The Amendment and the legislation were not aimed at 4 rightful state action. Abuse of state power was the target. Limits 5 were put to state authority; and states were forbidden to pass them, 6 by whatever agency."

7 Defendants have sought by varied and devious excuses to 8 justify the practice of segregation. An examination of the reasons 9 in each district conclusively establishes the segregation as being 10 discriminatory for the reason applicable to one district is aban-11 doned and another applied whereas if the reasons were applied to 12 all, there would be no excuse, except the honest reason, that it is 13 the practice of the School authorities to compel children of Mexi-14 can descent to attend separate schools.

15 In the Garden Grove School District; it is claimed all Mexi-
16 can children are handicapped "by reason of language" and the purpose 17 of the special instruction and separate schools is for the purpose
18 of assisting the pupils in their "understanding of the English 19 language." This argument was proven false. The experts testimony 20 effectively spiked the argument. You cannot help children with a 21 supposed language handicap by keeping them together with children 22 who suffer the same purported language handicap. The evidence of 23 purported language handicap was overwhelming in favor, no language
24 handicap. The obvious reason maybe gathered from reading Superinten-25 dent Kents treatese.

26 Mr. Kent's testimony is quoted verbatim on page 20-21 of the 27 respondents brief. Why not read and quote the treatese of Kent 28 written when there was no litigation thought of. His "true state of 29 mind" is amply reflected in his own written words. That is the evil 30 we are attempting to reach and the cancer we seek to eradicate.
31 " The theory of race supremacy."

32 In the Santa Ana School District; the reason given is " the 1 segregation is made by the people of Mexican descent themselves ".

2 Mr. Henderson testified the lines purposely drawn so that children
3 of Mexican descent were all in one District and perchance if chil-4 dren of Anglo descent lived in the district they were permitted to 5 go to schools out of the District attend wholly by children other 6 than of Mexican descent. Whereas Mexican children were not given 7 that privilege. The letters in evidence from the school Board to 8 only persons of Mexican descent attest to discriminatory practice.

9 Defendants have devoted 3 pages of their brief citing 10 State -vs- Wilmington School District 28 N. E. Rep. 2nd. 497 as 11 authority. This case permits segregation of "colored children".
12 It is directly contrary to Section 8003 of the Education Code of 13 California and no authority to segregate white children on the 14 basis of descent. Children of Mexican descent are white and Cauca-15 sians- not colored. The authority is worthless.

16 In the El Modeno District; the excuse is-- none. It is 17 claimed that "never before the filing of this lawsuit did anyone 18 complain." This is obviously a misstatement of fact. In this Dis-19 trict-the most flagrant - discrimination and segregation is absolu-20 te and complete. It is claimed that a few persons with Mexican 21 names attend the school attended by anglo saxon children- therefore 22 there is no segregation. The argument is specious. The students
23 themselves testified- complained to the principal and Superintendent 24 but to no avail. Even the High School graduation exercises are 25 held separately. If this is not a mockery of democracy then what 26 is?

27 The reasons and argument advanced by defendants are eva-28 cious, specious and without support either from the facts advanced 29 at the trial or from the quoted cases.

30 We respectfully request the judgment be entered in favor 31 of plaintiffs as prayed in plaintiffs complaint.
